NOTICE.—A CARD.

Sharon, Del., August 10, 1876.
To the Directors of the Delaware State Fire
and Marine Insurance Company.
GENTLEMEN: Allow me to return to you my thanks for the full payment of my claim against your company, under Policy 1146, especially as I had violated one of the express conditions of the policy, whereby its payment could have been avoided, or at least subjected to long and expensive litigation. I with pleasure recommend my friends to insure their property in the Delaware State Fire and Marine Insurance Company. A. MOORE.
Amount paid, $1,350.

Georgetown, Del., August 16, 1876.
James H. Myers, Esq.,
Secretary Delaware State Fire and Marine Insurance Company.
Dear Sir: Through you I wish to express my thanks to the Directors for the prompt payment of my claim under Policy 1,368.— Your action under the circumstances, places me under many obligations to your company, as we recognize the fact that we had no legal claim on your company for the payment of the same. We will here say to our friends that if they want a policy in a company that tries to practice justice and equity in the adjustment and payment of its losses, then insure your property in the Delaware State Fire
and Marine Insurance Company.

Truly yours,
W. B. TOMLINSON,
for A. B. Robinson & Co.
Amount paid, $500.

AUTUMN.

They have come—the autumn days,
When the red sun's chastened rays, Glimmer bright and made and hue That the summer never knew,
And pierce the thicket through Where I stood.

It had come—the autumn time;
Passed the summer and the prime
Of my days,
Careless of joys or fears,
For the sod was damp with tears;
Withered held the hopes of years In my gaze.

When the magic of thy love Lest the sun in from above, Soft and bright,
And I saw with altered mind
That the autumn, too, was kind In its light.

For, just as a brighter green Glorifies the passing year,
And the vistas opening clear Let the wider scenes appear Free from grief;

So might it be in life,
When the glory and the strife
Of its June
Had shed their flowers and fruits,
From pure or poisoned roots,
Late or soon.

We may find a grander view
With a wider passage through
To our rest,
And that love which blossoms last,
When passion's dream is past,
Is the best.

CAN YOU STAND FIRE?

As I was walking along the Strand, One night, I came upon a fine, tall soldier, and entered into conversation with him. In the course of our talk I said, There is one thing I cannot understand about the British soldier. 'What is that, sir?' 'Well,' he said, 'he is bold and daring; you could not insult him more than by calling him a coward. These fine men among you who would rush up to the cannon's mouth, even if you knew it would be certain death; and yet there are among you men who dare not kneel down in the barracks-room at night and repeat the prayer their mother taught them when they were children.' He paused, and said, 'That is true.' 'What is the meaning of it soldier?' He said, 'You remind me of what took place in my own room a few weeks ago. A young fellow came in our room, and the first night, before going to bed, he knelt down to pray, and instantly there was a noise and disturbance in the room. Caps and belts were flung over the man, but he did not move. The second night there was a general cry, 'will he try it again? Caps and belts were thrown again, and the men whistled. The third night he went again on his knees, and again on the fourth night, with the same result, and on the fifth night. And then, he said, 'the greatest blackguard in the room cried out, 'He is genuine—he stands fire, and from that night every one in the room respected him, and began to follow his example.'

In a large establishment in Birmingham, very similar to what many of you are in, some seventy years ago, there was a youth who came from his mother's loving home in one of our beautiful villages. He had been taught to 'stand fire,' not to be ashamed of God or of prayer. The first night he retired to rest in a room with several other youth he knelt down to pray, and as in the case of the soldier, he was instantly lashed by the young fellows in the room abusing him and ridiculing him, and everything was done to induce him to abandon him from prayer; but he 'stood fire,'—he was not ashamed of the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Among them was a strong-built youth who stood on the right, and who said: 'My mother taught me to do that.
I have been ashamed of doing it; but 'will do it.' That youth became the beloved of the mother, and one from which there is but one method of extri-cation, and that is to state clearly and definitely what he did with the $400 he admits having received from the executed deserter.

It is not at all reasonable to suppose that a man proverbially as careful of money as Gov. Hayes is known to be,
would receive so large a sum as $400
and not be able to tell what disposition he made of it, and more especially when
that money was not his own, but held in trust for others. Such a plea is unworthy a man named for the Presidency. It will therefore not be accepted as satisfactory. Gov. Hayes must give categorical answers to both charges.—Phila. Chronicle.

THE WAY TO SERVE RELATIONS.
The following plan ought to be adopted another year by country people having city kindred. It is furnished by the Kingston Freeman as worthy of consideration. A gentleman living up the railroad having been pestered by his relations from the city coming to visit him every summer, told his wife last spring that there must be a change in things. If she had to work herself to death during the hot weather she might as well get paid for it, so he meant to assist for boarders. The good wife acquiesced, and the result is they have filled their house with boarders at $7 a week, and the host of relatives have to go somewhere else to spend the summer and pay for their board. 'Why,' said the gentleman, 'my wife don't have to work half as hard. These boarders are not near so particular about costly food as our relations, and they actually help around the house just as though it was fun for them. Catch any of our company doing that. Not a bit of it. They are always in the way, wanting continual waiting on, and never did a thing to help my wife, not even in washing dishes. We will make this summer nearly $400, and it will be clear money, for our relations would have eaten just as much as these boarders, besides making more work, without ever contributing a cent.'

PROSPERITY.—Prosperity shines on different persons much in the same way that the sun shines on different objects.
Some it seems like mud, while others it softens like wax.

THE RECORDS OF THE PRESIDEN- TIAL CANDIDATES.

When the Presidential campaign opened, the proposition came from the Republican side of the house, that it should be conducted upon principles of decency—that gross personalities should be avoided, and that private character should be respected by both parties. So far as we have had opportunities for observation, this proposition was accepted and respected by the Democrats, but no sooner were the St. Louis nominations made, than every Republican journal in the country—we make no exception—commenced pouring out columns of slander and vituperation to an extent almost unparalleled hitherto. Governor Tilden was made the special object of their dirty assaults. He was attacked at every possible point, was charged with nearly every crime in the calendar save murder, and there is no telling how soon that will come. Now, when it is remembered that Gov. Tilden is a gentleman who, during a long life, has been held in the highest esteem by all who had the honor of his acquaintance, and that until his nomination for the Presidency his name was the synonym for all that was honorable and upright, the cruelty, malignity and falsity of these assaults become daily more and more apparent. But, like a rock of adamant, he has withstood them all.— Not a single one of the many scandalous allegations of his political enemies has been sustained. One by one they have fallen to the ground, and have given him a more exalted position than ever in the estimation of his fellow citizens. This is but natural. The American people are always fair minded. They are always disposed to hear before they strike, and not apt to strike without good and sufficient cause. They have heard the slanders uttered against Gov. Tilden by the Republican party.
They have carefully weighed them against his well-known character for honesty and honesty, and cast them aside as unworthy of further consideration.

In the same manner the people are now examining the record of Governor Hayes. They have the charges and the denials, and those who have thoroughly inspected the sworn statement as to his income, and his explanation of that statement. Putting that and that side by side, and comparing the two, the conclusion is irresistible that he has falsified the truth, or in plain words, that he stands before the world in the character of a perjurer.

It is not only a matter of fact, but a characteristic of the man, that he is reluctant, but is compelled to it by a sense of duty to truth. If such language is unpalatable, if the private affairs have been thus unpleasantly brought to light, the fault does not rest with the Democrats. The investigation of his income returns was invited, nay, forced by his own warmest friends.
They have forced the fighting in this direction, and thus far they have evidently got the worst of it. As stated, he has attempted an explanation. It is not only unsatisfactory, but absolutely condemning, leaving him in a worse position than had he permitted the charge to go unanswered.

In like manner, when charged by W.
W. Harper, Chaplain of the Thirtieth Union Volunteers, of West Virginia, which in 1864 was in Hayes' command, with having appropriated to himself $400, the property of an executed deserter, instead of meeting the charge fairly and squarely, he evades it by pleading ignorance of the disposition made of the money, and one from which he had received the $400.— Indeed, such a denial would be absurd, for Chaplain Harper details every incident connected with the transfer of the money to Hayes, with such particularity as to leave him no room for denial.
Therefore, the wretched plea of ignorance as to what he did with it, whether he paid it over to the deserter's friends, paid it to the Government, paid it to the regimental fund, or kept it himself, places Gov. Hayes at a position very far from being enviable, and one from
which there is but one method of extri-
ecuted deserter.

money as Gov. Hayes is known to be,
and not be able to tell what disposition
dency. It will therefore not be ac-
charges.—Phila. Chronicle.

WHEN AND WHY LAMPS EXPLODE.

We take from the Scientific American a few hints that journal gives as to the danger arising from petroleum lamps.

All explosions of petroleum lamps are caused by the vapor or gas that collects in the space above the oil.
When full of oil, of course, a lamp contains no gas, but immediately on lighting the lamp consumption of oil begins, soon leaving a space for gas, which commences to form as the lamp warms up, and after burning a short time, sufficient gas will accumulate to form an explosion. The gas in a lamp will explode only when ignited. In this respect it is like gunpowder. Cheap or inferior oil is always most dangerous.

The flame is communicated to the gas in the following manner: The wick tube in all lamp burners is made larger than the wick which is to pass through it. It would not do to have the wick work tightly in the burner; on the contrary, it is essential that it move up and down with perfect ease.
In this way it is inevitable that space in the tube is left along the sides of the wick sufficient for the flame from the burner to pass down into the lamp and explode the gas.

Many things occur to cause the flame to pass down the wick and explode the gas. 1. A lamp may be standing on a table or mantel, and a slight puff of air from the open window or door may cause an explosion. 2. A lamp may be taken up quickly from a table or mantel and instantly exploded. 3. A lamp is taken into an entry where there is a draught, or out of doors, and an explosion ensues. 4. A lighted lamp is taken up a flight of stairs, or is raised quickly to place it on the mantel, resulting in an explosion. In these cases the mischief is done by the air movement—either by suddenly checking the draught, or forcing air down the chimney against the flame. 5.

Blowing down the chimney to extinguish the light is a frequent cause of explosion. 6. Lamp explosions have been caused by using a chimney broken off at the top, or one that has a piece broken out, whereby the draught is variable and the flame unsteady. 7.
Sometimes a thoughtless person puts a small-wick in a large burner, thus leaving considerable space along the edges of the wick. 8. An old burner, with its air-draughts clogged up, which rightfully should be thrown away, is sometimes continued in use, and the final result is an explosion.

POVERTY A BLESSING.—Poverty is the nurse of many energy, and heaven-climbing thoughts, attended by love, and faith, and hope, round whose steps the mountain breezes blow, and from whose countenance all the virtues gather strength. Look around you upon the distinguished men that in every department of life guide and control the times, and inquire what were their early fortunes. Were they, as a general rule, rich and dissipated in the lap of wealth?
No; such men emerge from the homes of decent competence or struggling poverty. Necessity sharpens their faculties; and privation and sacrifice brace their moral nature. They learn the great art of renunciation, and enjoy the happiness of having few wants; they know nothing of the indifference of society. There is not an idle fibre in their frames; they put the vigor of a resolute purpose into every act. The edge of their mind always kept sharp; the school of life makes the wealth meet the softly-nurtured darlings of prosperity as iron meets the vessels of porcelain.

"THANK YOU."
Simplicity is the soul of truth; and among the varied terms that fill the measure of our language, none are more replete with meaning, none more perfect in simplicity, none more touching in sincerity, than the simple phrase, 'I thank you.' It is the fit dress of the scholar, the perfect emblem of the essence of the light that lives in the soul.
Gratitude does not belong alone to great things, but is born alike of magnanimous deeds and the smallest actions within the scope of human achievement.
'Poor Carolina, my poor Carolina,' are mournful words, yet, they are immortal, as exhibiting the emotion of the dying prince, Maximilian of Hapsburg, who, when earth and its glories were fading away, thought most of her, who had been true to him. The same spirit, modest though it be, pulses through the heart of every lady or gentleman, whenever a service, however trivial, has been received.

It is a duty just as incumbent to say 'I thank you,' for a seat proffered in a street car, as to express gratitude for the donation of a large sum of money; and, yet, how many fail to recognize the non-existence of a distinction.

One sees on the streets of our large cities daily ladies attired in gorgeous apparel, and manifesting every evidence of wealth and refinement, whose every movement is grace, and whose expression is elegance, and who, nevertheless, do not seem to comprehend the universal character of gratitude; that the ragged gain is as much entitled to a kind word and a soft smile for opening the door of her carriage, as the courtly gentleman for assisting her to alight.

If one cannot afford a more substantial recognition of a kindness, it is at least within his means to say, 'I thank you.'
We sometimes meet men whose deportment at home reveals every phase of accomplished politeness, the charm of whose presence is in itself a luxury.
The same individuals, regarded in the dining-room of a hotel, would tend to impress a spectator with the thought that society was nursing in its bosom a race of vulgar churls and bungling bores.—Sat. Ev. Post.

A Middletown girl had a fall last week, and injured herself so severely that she was carried home insensible.
Upon recovering, her first words, addressed to her sister, were: 'Mary, did I have on my striped stockings?'

He but waters his soup who takes many words to tell a short story.

BLACK ON GARFIELD.

When General Garfield sent Judge Jeremiah Black a copy of his speech on the political issues of the last one hundred years in this country, with applications more or less pertinent to the pending Presidential canvass, he stumbled into the wrong pew. Judge Black acknowledges General Garfield's courtesy in an open letter, which ex-coriates the latter's argument most unmercifully. The Judge is perfectly at home on the slavery question disinterested by Garfield, and does not hesitate to devote a few octavo pages to firing upon New England the responsibility for the introduction of negroes into this country. He goes further, and en-davors to show that Massachusetts condemned Indians as well as Africans to slavery. Coming down, however, to modern times, Judge Black waxes warmer and strikes more telling blows.
The Republican party, he claims, has dishonestly used the power it usurped during and immediately after the war.
This, it is urged, is the most corrupt government this side of Constantinople.
You may England the rottenness of the rotten monarchy in Europe, go over its history for a hundred years and produce the worst act you can find of fraudulent spoliation upon its people, and if I do not show something worse committed here under the auspices of the party now in power, I will give up the case. He does not wonder that General Garfield's assertion that the Republican party will punish its own scandals was received with laughter from the Republican side of the House for it is well known that dishonesty is protected, encouraged and rewarded by the highest authorities in this government. The Southern policy of the administration, the political enslavement of Louisiana and the Credit Mobilier and whisky ring frauds are cited as cases in point. These things are not to be defended by waving the bloody shirt. After an elaboration of these points and a good-tempered but stinging review of General Garfield's speech, Judge Black returns to the subject of the bad record of the postbellum Republican party, Judge Black asks and answers his own questions in these suggestive words:

I cannot describe to you how unpleasant is the sensation produced by your profession of a desire for peace.
Why do you not give us peace if you are willing we shall have it? You need not to cease hostilities and the general tranquillity will be restored. You refuse to do that, because peace would endanger your party ascendancy. To maintain your plunderers in power you have uniformly resorted to the bayonet—the you have made civil war the chronic condition of the country—wherever you could have displaced liberty, fraternity and equality, and given nothing instead but infamy, artillery and cavalry. You are at this moment openly engaged in preparing your battalions for armed intervention in the struggle of the people with the carpet-baggers. What makes this worse is your closing declaration that you will take no step backward. There is to be no repentance, no change of policy, and consequently no peaceful or honest government. 'Onward,' you say is the word. Onward to what? To more war, more plunder, more oppression, more universal bankruptcy, heavier taxes and still worse frauds on the public treasury?

INSULT.—It is always better to pass a dozen intended insults without recognition, than to take offense at a single unintentional neglect or reflection.
Misunderstandings are fruitful of more unkindly feeling in society than ever result from deliberate ill-nature. Hundreds of friendships have been sundered by that egotistical sensitiveness which is ever looking for offenses. We can all point to certain persons who are thus morbidly sensitive to a painful degree.
They are disagreeable companions. We need not spend our precious time in pointing to them, however. We have each something to guard in our own character. We are each inclined to take offense too easily. If we could remove this ever jealous watchfulness, society would gain a new charm, or rather it would be relieved of a very disagreeable feature. Pass neglect, then, and personal reflections as gratuitously as possible, instead of taking the risk of being offended when no offense is intended.

HAYES AND OFFICIAL FEES IN OHIO.

When William Allen was Governor of Ohio, a measure advocated by him was passed by the Legislature and placed on the statute books which reduced the fees of local and county officers thirty-three per cent. This reduction made a difference, taking the entire State together, of nearly $5,000,000 in the public outlay, and, of course, relieved the people of a tax of that amount which they had been paying.
As soon as Mr. Hayes, thanks to Democratic division, got into office, a combination of these officials was formed and a bill passed the Legislature repealing Governor Allen's act, and re-establishing the old scale of fees. To this repeal Governor Hayes did not raise the least objection, and those who pressed it claimed that they had his co-operation. It certainly went from the statute books without any protest from him. If it be shown that he disliked the act, that will only prove how worse than idle it is to expect such a man to put to stop to operations of the corrupt rings at Washington. If Hayes as Governor is incompetent to handle general policy and robbery in Ohio, how can he expect Hayes as President to resist the tremendous pressure of organized rascality at Washington?— World.

The first stage coach in America ton and New York was established in 1732, a coach leaving each city once a month. Fourteen days were required to complete the journey. In 1802 the mail stage started from Boston for New York on Monday at 8 A. M., and was due in New York at noon on Friday.

GRACE DARLING'S HEROISM.

Grace Darling, the daughter of the keeper of one of the lighthouses upon the Farn Islands, a perilous cluster of rocks off Saint Abbe's head, was awakened towards the morning of the sixth of September, 1835, by shrieks of distress, and when dawn came, perceived the remains of a wreck upon Longstone Island, the outermost of the group.

Grace awoke her father and urged him to launch his boat and go to the rescue of any one who might still be alive in the stranded vessel, but the tide was rising, wind and sea were wild, and the man hung back. Grace, however, was sure that she discerned a movement on the wreck, as though living beings were still there, and seizing an oar, placed herself in the boat, which she was well able to manage.
Her father would not let her go alone, and they rowed off together in a tremendous sea, encouraged by perceiving that nine persons were still clinging to the forepart of the ship.
After many vain attempts, succeeded in landing on the rock, and making his way to the wreck, while Grace rowed off and on among the breakers, dexterously guiding her little boat, which but for the excellent management would have been dashed to pieces against the rocks.

One by one, with the utmost care and skill, the nine survivors were placed in the boat and carried to the lighthouse, where Grace lodged, fed and nursed them for two whole days, before the storm abated enough for communication with the mainland. One was a lady whose two children of eleven and eight years old had actually been buffeted to death by the waves while she held them in her arms, and who was so much injured herself that it was long before she could leave her bed.

The vessel was the Forfarshire, a large steamer plying between Hull and Dundee. Her boiler had been out of order, and she was being towed by five tugboats, when the storm arose and the ship was unmanageable without her steam, and was driven helplessly upon the Farn Islands. The only boat had been lowered by eight of the sailors, who were pushing off in her, when one gentleman rushed upon the deck, seized a rope and swung himself in, after them. These nine were picked up by a sloop and saved. Of the others, the whole number had either been drowned in their berths, or washed off the wreck, except four of the crew and the passengers, whom Grace Darling's valor had rescued. The entire number of the lost is not known, but more than forty had certainly got on board at Hull. Some sailors at Sunderland went out to the wreck during the storm at the peril of their lives, but found only corpses to bring away. Grace's noble conduct rang through England, and every testimonial that could be offered was sent to her. We believe this brave girl soon after died of diphtheria.

MANAGING YOUNG GIRLS.

Why is it that young gentlemen have such a poor opinion of young girls?
At a rule, they think them very pleasant to pass an hour with, provided the girls let them make as many foolish speeches as they like and repay them with interest. And who is to blame for that? Surely not the girls. Their greatest ambition in life is to be loved by and become the wife of some good man, and, say what you will, it is a noble one. With that end in view, it is of course, natural that they should please the lords of creation should be uppermost in a girl's mind. If men will not be interested when you talk sense, what can you do but talk nonsense? Men complain that girls have nothing else to talk about except their last flirtation, balls, and parties, yet they converse with them for an hour upon philosophy, metaphysics, or even the last new book you are bored, called a poor girl who has worried her brains for your entertainment. Women were made to please, not to lecture one like a trained professor, and wonder

The Middletown Transcript.

EDWARD REYNOLDS, Editor.

MIDDLETOWN, DEL.

SATURDAY MORNING, OCT. 14, 1876.

SCRIBNER'S MAGAZINE.—With the October number of the 11th volume of this most excellent periodical was closed. Though one of the youngest, SCRIBNER'S is almost universally conceded to be one of the very best of American literary publications. Its illustrated articles are surpassingly excellent and its serial stories and scientific essays unequalled.

All subscriptions which commenced at the beginning of the 11th volume have expired with it. This gentleman who have been receiving the magazine in connection with the Transcript will please bear in mind, and if they wish to renew their subscriptions let us know at once, that they may receive the November number as soon as it is issued. The price will be the same as last year.

LOCAL AND STATE AFFAIRS.

Next Thursday, the 19th, is Delaware's day at the Centennial.

The frosts are beginning to color the leaves on the trees, and the ladies will soon be out leaf-hunting.

Read Messrs. Wamaker & Brown's new advertisement in the right hand corner of the third page (top).

The reports published in this issue show the Middletown and Odessa banks to be pretty healthy.

The Teachers' Institute for this county will be held at Newark on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 28th, 29th and 30th, prox.

An adjourned meeting of the lot holders of the Forest Presbyterian Cemetery will be held in the Lecture rooms of the Church this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Two trucks from Jersey were struck by the south-bound express train near Wilmington on Tuesday morning, while crossing the track, and seriously injured.

Taylor & Mullin, of Newark, have received a prize medal from the Centennial judges for the best exhibit of rugs and carpets at the fair.

Bishop Becker at St. Dennis.

Right Rev'd Bishop Becker, of Wilmington, will render Divine service, at St. Dennis (R. C.) church, Md., on Sunday morning (to-morrow) at 10 o'clock.

A Recently Tricked.

John T. Wilson's horse and buggy was taken from the shed at Maxwell's hotel, Middletown, one night last week, during the fair, and was found next morning tied to the fence on the farm of S. C. Biggs, near the canal, having evidently been driven all night. The horse was very tired, though otherwise uninjured.

Return of Harrington.

Richard Harrington returned to Delaware on Wednesday and voluntarily surrendered himself to U. S. Marshal Dunn for trial on the indictment now pending against him in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, for conspiracy against Columbus Alexander in attempting to inculcate him in the celebrated safe burglary case. Harrington was given a hearing by the U. S. Commissioner, at Wilmington, who held him in $10,000 bail for his appearance at court, his father-in-law, Dr. Henry Ridgely, and his brother, S. M. Harrington, Esq., becoming his sureties.

Fatal Accident at Smyrna.

J. W. Mariner, of Smyrna, aged between 60 and 70 years, was instantly killed Tuesday morning by being run over by the engine and tender on the branch railroad running from Clayton to Smyrna. The engine was backing down the track to couple to the cars in the depot, when Mr. Mariner was on his way to his office, and crossing the track was caught, knocked down and so fearfully mangled that instant death ensued.

Mr. Mariner had been for several years a Justice of the Peace, and a leading influential member of the M. E. Church in Smyrna.

The Mexican Circus.

This entertainment, which has been held every night for nearly a week on the open lot on the corner of Broad and Chest streets, is said by those who have visited it, to be really a first-class affair of its kind. The acrobatic performances of the young men are said to be very fine, and to judge from the roars of laughter from the spectators, their comic performances must be amusing in the extreme. They are a quiet, orderly, well behaved set of people, all of one family, and are striving to make use of the talents given them to make a living for themselves. While the price of admission is not high, their entertainment is said to be quite meritorious and well worth seeing.

The Laurel Fair Next Week.

The third annual fair of the Laurel and Peninsula Agricultural and Mechanical Society will be held next week, commencing on Tuesday and continuing four days. It promises to be an interesting occasion. The grounds are well fitted up and conveniently arranged for the display of goods and wares, and it is expected that the various departments will contain large and fine assortments of goods pertaining to their several classes. The fair last year was a very successful one, and the managers this year have been doing their utmost to make this one even more successful and interesting than the last one, and in so doing, they have spared neither labor nor expense. As many New Castle people as can should make it a point to attend this fair in order to see and know for themselves a little of what Old Sussex is doing in the agricultural line. The several purposes for the "Trials of Speed" are well filled, there being in all some eighty entries, some of them being among the finest trotters on the Peninsula.

A Horrible Death.

About a month ago Alexander Scott, a farmer living near Cherry Hill, indulged in an exchange of horses. The horse he secured was a fine looking animal, but at the time was suffering from some disease of the head. Mr. Scott believed it to be "distemper," and did not object to running the risk. About two weeks ago Mr. Scott's hand began to itch, and he began to scratch it on the back of his head, and in a few days a very ugly ulcer, causing him a great deal of pain. Last week he became sick of a fever, and Dr. Carter was called in. He found the patient suffering from a fever, but detected nothing different from an ordinary case of intermittent fever, and prescribed the usual remedies. Dr. Carter having occasion to leave home, and the fever not abating, Dr. Ellis, of Elkton, was asked to attend Mr. Scott. At Dr. E.'s first visit, last Saturday, he prescribed for intermittent fever, having first inquired about the sore head, and being told that it had nearly healed. The next day, however, he found Mr. Scott suffering with a raging fever and covered with "bubonic" eruptions. The disease was unmistakably "glanders," and had been communicated from the glandered horse through the break in the skin of the hand. Mr. Scott suffered the most fearful agony and delirium throughout the day, and into the night of Sunday, when death ensued. Cases of persons suffering from "glanders" are very rare, but occur often enough to remind horsemen that the proper way to deal with a horse suffering from this fatal disease is to have him killed at once. A horse may have chronic "glanders" and live a long time, keep fat and work without difficulty, yet inoculate man and beast with the deadly virus that is slowly sapping his existence.—Cent (Md.) Democrat.

An Impudent Robbery.

The hotel of Sylvester Clements, Esq., at Summit Bridge, was robbed last Tuesday night under circumstances of the most impudent and outrageous character. About 11 o'clock that night two men drove across the bridge from the northern side, and in a short time returned and hitched their horses and walked back to the southern side. They then went to Mr. Clements' house and asked for and obtained lodgings for the night and retired. In a little while after two other men came to the hotel under the pretense of getting drinks, and were joined by the former two from upstairs. The party then told Mr. C. that they were U. S. detectives and charged him with circulating counterfeit money, and seizing him, hand-cuffed and been forced silence upon him by placing a loaded pistol to his head. The bartender's room was also visited and the inmate served in the same manner. The rascals then ransacked the house and robbed it of $300 in money and other valuables. Having accomplished their object they started for their teams on the other side of the bridge, but were surprised to find the draw turned off, preventing their passage. They called to the bridge-tender but Mr. Kane's suspicions had been aroused by their conduct, and he refused to put the bridge on, and finding they could not get across they left on foot. In the meantime the bar-tender succeeded in freeing himself from his hand-cuffs and raised alarm to loud howler to capture the plunderers who had made their escape. Mr. Clements and his bar-tender are generally the only occupants of the house which fact was probably known to the robbers.

It has been since ascertained that two of the men hired the team in Wilmington, at Dickinson & Bro.'s livery stable, under the pretense of taking some ladies to New Castle. Messrs. Dickinson & Bro. at first refused to hire them the team but were induced to do so on the recommendation of Eugene Whitlock. (The latter turned out to be a swindler.) Mr. Clements, on Wednesday morning, No. 10, has yet been obtained to the burglars.

THE OCTOBER ELECTIONS!

DEMOCRATIC VICTORIES IN INDIANA AND WEST VIRGINIA.

OHIO STICKS TO HAYES!

The tremendous excitement and political enthusiasm which has racked the states of Ohio, Indiana and West Virginia for some months past, culminated in one of the hardest fought election battles, on Tuesday last, which has ever taken place in this country. The contest was exceedingly close; in many districts so much so as to require the official vote to decide it. Enough, however, has been obtained to render it pretty certain that the Democrats have carried Indiana and West Virginia by large majorities, and the Republicans Ohio, though by somewhat decreased majorities.

OHIO.

Nearly complete returns from Ohio indicate the election of Mr. Barnes, the republican candidate for secretary of state, by about 3000 majority, and the remainder of the republican ticket by majorities ranging from 3000 to 6000. Of the Congressional districts the republicans have carried 12 and the democrats 8—a republican gain of 5 congressmen. The Legislature is also republican.

INDIANA.

Returns from nearly all the counties, official or otherwise authentic, indicate that Mr. Williams, the democratic candidate for Governor, is elected by over 3000 majority, and the rest of the democratic ticket by between 5000 and 7500. Of the delegation in the next congress the democrats will have three members and the republicans seven. The fourth district is still in doubt. The republicans will have a small majority in both branches of the Legislature.

WEST VIRGINIA.

The entire democratic ticket is elected, including the three representatives in congress, by majorities ranging from 8000 to 10,000, which it is thought, will be increased, perhaps to 12,000. The democrats have a large majority of the Legislature, which will secure the election of two democrats to the U. S. Senate to supply the places of Senators Davis (term expired) and Caperton (deceased).

Nervous Debility.

Vital weakness or depression; a weak exhausted feeling; no energy or courage; the result of mental overwork, indiscretions or excesses, or some drain upon the system, is always cured by Humphreys' Homeopathic Specific No. 25. It tones up and invigorates the system, dispels the gloom and despondency, imparts strength and energy, stops the drain and rejuvenates the entire man. It is used with perfect success by thousands. Sold by dealers. Price $1 per single vial, or $5 per package of five vials and $2 vial of powder. Sent by mail on receipt of price. Address Humphreys' Homeopathic Medicine Co., 522 Broadway, N. Y. See large advertisement.

THINK FOR YOURSELF.

Thousands lead miserable lives, suffering from dyspepsia, a disordered stomach and liver, producing biliousness, heartburn, costiveness, weakness, irregular appetite, low spirits, raising food after eating, and often ending in fatal attacks of fever. They know they are sick, yet get little sympathy. The unfailing remedy, which is rapidly restoring thousands, is DeCosta's Radical Cure, sold by C. Anderson, Druggist, Middletown.

WORMS!

A 25c bottle convinces you of its merits. Don't delay another hour after reading this, but go and get a bottle, and your relief is as certain as you live. Will you do it, or will you continue to suffer? Think for yourself! Professor Parker's Pleasant Worm Syrup is perfectly safe and extremely palatable. No physician required. Costs 25 cents. Try it.

WORMS!

It is reported that ROGERS' GERMAN SYRUP has since its introduction in the United States reached the immense sale of 40,000 dozen per year. Over 6,000 Druggists have ordered this medicine direct from the factory, at Woodbury, N. J., and not one has reported a single failure, but every letter speaks of its astonishing success in curing severe Coughs, Colds, whooping Cough, or the H. P. Baker, Omelet, get this medicine or inquire about it. Regular size, 75c. Sample bottle 10c. Two doses will relieve any case. Don't neglect your cough.

PREPARE FOR WINTER.—The calendar and the good night, says the West-ern Farmer, point to approaching cold weather; and whatever leisure time occurs between now and corn gathering time, should be made available in preparing for winter. Whatever of threshing is yet to be located with a view of furnishing shelter for such stocks as are forced to remain out during the winter. The shelter of timber, and the shelter of the straw risk combined, are of inestimable value, and the two should be combined, if there is timber, natural or artificial, upon the farm.
Where the stock is not numerous, the plan of building a strong frame-work of crutches and poles, adequate to sustaining a portion of the straw risk, thus affording shelter for cattle beneath, is a most excellent one, and affords the cheapest really good shelter that can be devised.
Now is an excellent time to cut coarse sough grass for covering, and no man who has stock to winter, and has no stabling already on his farm, can excuse himself on the score of inability to build stable room, because it is mainly a question of labor, and not of cost. Labor is a large amount of the cost required. In the absence of a permanent building for the shelter of horses and cattle, and the storage of hay and other feed, the usual upright posts, eight feet above the ground, set firmly, enclosed with rough lumber lapped or battened, the whole covered with sough grass, spread upon rafters and cross ribs suitably placed, will afford stable room, with proper fixtures inside, well adapted to horses or cattle, or both, and so cheaply made, as to furnish no excuse to anyone for allowing his farm beasts to pass the winter nights without protection. It may reasonably be expected that the coming winter will be none other than a cold one, and while a dry, cold winter is preferable in some respects, to such an open winter as the last, still, excessive cold keeps the system upon the strain, and it is infinitely cheaper, and humane, to save animal heat through the means of warm shelter than to furnish this from the crib.
FALL PLANTING.—Fruit-bearing trees, shrubs, vines and brambles may be transplanted in the fall, and very often under more favorable conditions, and with better prospects of success, than if set out in the spring. There are some well known objections raised against fall planting, especially fruit trees, such as the long exposure to the swaying of the winds before growth commences. But the injury or displacement of the roots from swaying at the tops amounts to little compared to the many striking advantages gained in planting at a season of the year when there is comparatively leisure, when the ground is usually dry and in good condition, and when the necessary preparatory stirring of the soil can be made without any extra expense. These are points that tell in the growth and productivity of fruit trees, either in the garden or the orchard. If planted in the fall, the soil settles closely around the roots and fibres by the time the spring opens, and an earlier growth is started than with the spring setting, which is often pushed back until the season is well advanced, from causes over which the planter has no control. The spring may be backward enough to hinder planting of trees in a way in which they should be set out to insure success. All other things being equal, there is no doubt that spring would be the better time to plant trees. But this does not often happen to be the case, as every practical fruit-grower well knows. It is therefore wise to transplant in the fall if the trees and the ground are in readiness.—P. T. Quinn in Scribner for October.

THE DAVIS
VERTICAL FEED SHUTTLE
SEWING MACHINE
is unhesitatingly pronounced by hosts of practical operators to be the best machine for practicality and economy, as well as durability and simplicity, now before the public. It is, beyond question, more desirable for all kinds of work than any other machine in use. It is the only practical machine for hemming, stitching, sewing, and is especially adapted to DRESS MAKING.
The Vertical Feed-Bar
involves a new feature, possessing one of the most valuable working principles ever invented. The DAVIS was awarded the highest premium.
A Gold Medal,
over 19 competitors after a severe test of six weeks, by the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia, in 1874.
It received the 1st PREMIUM as the best machine for general use at the great Centennial Exposition in Philadelphia; It was also awarded the
